The University

The MCAOM Edith Davis Teaching Clinic is a clinic of Northwestern Health Sciences University, which offers natural health care academic programs in chiropractic, acupuncture, Oriental medicine, massage therapy, and human biology. Northwestern's beautiful 25-acre campus in Bloomington, Minnesota, is home to 800 students and nearly 300 employees.

Our Intern Program

The MCAOM Edith Davis Teaching Clinic is an important educational site for our senior interns and offers them a clinical experience in a unique community setting. Students will provide your care under the supervision of a clinical faculty supervisor who is licensed in the state of Minnesota.

Please note that there are a few times during the year the clinic will be closed due to scheduled breaks in the academic calendar, University functions, and holidays. We will notify you of those closings by posting changes to clinic hours throughout the clinic as well as on the clinic voicemail. We ask that you make every effort to arrive a few minutes prior to your scheduled appointment time.

Cancellations

To maintain our excellence in customer service, we require a 24-hour cancellation notification. We have many same-day requests for our services as well as a commitment to providing our students with a high-quality clinical experience. Our Services

We offer services in acupuncture and Oriental medicine. Please notify our receptionist, student, or student supervisor if you would like more information about other services.

Intern Rotation Policies

During the course of treatment, patients may see the same intern each visit for a period of time. After that time, a different intern will be assigned to provide patients with the benefit of a new perspective and to enhance intern learning experiences. The clinic supervisor will determine the appropriate number of visits per intern, based on the best patient care and the best intern education.
